2017 Convention Theme

/rɛkrɪ'eɪʃən/
/ri:krɪ'eɪʃən/

*By Shannin Schroeder
2017 Convention Chair*

“You say ‘to-may-to’ and I say ‘to-mah-to,’” Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers sing in the 1930s movie Shall We Dance. The song’s cheeky suggestion, “Let’s call the whole thing off,” is a playful and hyperbolic reminder that pronunciation can be the difference between comprehension and confusion.

The theme for the 2017 Sigma Tau Delta Convention invites such considerations of pronunciation and of how subtle shifts matter. In shifting from the notion of recreation—rebirth, renewal, a second go at existence—to recreation—play, leisure, pastimes—we tap into one of the glorious aspects of the English language: we often must know context before we can properly affix a word with its meaning.

The word recreation, in microcosm, represents the work we do in our discipline. The theme invites us to ponder our own existence . . . and the means by which we seek answers to such vexing questions. We reach for the divine, the mystical . . . and find ourselves, instead, embracing the popular and secular. One word demands the study of the most erudite notions to face humans—as well as the most common or mainstream views.

No matter how we pronounce this year’s theme, we come to the intersection of numerous threads of the study of English.

Sigma Tau Delta Convention App

Download the brand new Sigma Tau Delta Convention app, which allows you to

- view schedules, explore sessions, and find speaker and networking events;
- create your own personal schedule for easy conference attendance;
- access details about our location and local attractions;
- share and post photos, and find out which sessions are trending;
- unlock achievements and earn points that could win you prizes; and
- check the leaderboard to see how you compare to other attendees.

Use the app to expand your professional network and get the most out of convention!

The Sigma Tau Delta Convention app is available both in the App Store and on Google Play, as well as in an HTML desktop version. All registered attendees have received an email invite with an initial password. If you have questions or problems, go to the on-site registration desk.

SIGMA CON

Friday, 9:00 - 11:00 p.m. (Marriott Salon 5-6)

Featuring Special Guests:

Jeff VanderMeer, author of Annihilation and Wonderbook

Roland Paris, inker for Marvel Entertainment (Amazing Spider-Man and Ms. Marvel)

SigmaCon offers lovers of pop culture and literature an opportunity to gather with others who love popular art forms and culture, comics, fandoms, and (of course) literature from across the ages. Whether you bring your favorite fandom T-shirts or cosplay any character from books, film, TV, or comics, you are sure to bump into other fellow fans. All interests from Elizabeth Bennett to Harley Quinn, Captain Jack Sparrow to Caliban, are welcome!

Attendees will have the chance to win door prizes, talk to our special guests about their work, collect autographs, and even grab a photo. Jeff VanderMeer's books will be on sale, and Roland Paris will be selling original comic outlines and sketches of attendees' favorite heroes. A local vendor and various chapters will be selling books, comics, original artwork, and other merchandise, and Student Leadership will be hosting trivia and cosplay contests.

Abecedarian: The ABCs of Convention

New to convention? Attending alone?

Abecedarian: “a person who is inexperienced in a particular subject; a novice” (OED)

Wednesday, 6:30 - 7:15 p.m. (Marriott Salon 5-6)

Convention can be overwhelming, especially with so many activities from which to choose, as well as an entire new city to explore. At past conventions, first-time and solo attendees have told us stories of being “adopted” by a larger chapter or of having found a convention buddy on their own. But breaking out of our comfort zones when we’re in a new place, surrounded by hundreds of other new people, can be difficult. This quick and informal meeting will help you learn how to negotiate through convention, giving you recommendations for making the most of your time and introducing you to other Abecedarians.

Dr. Sarah Dangelantonio, a seasoned Sponsor and past Board member and convention chair, will offer advice and answer your questions about convention. Student Leaders will also be on hand to make suggestions about getting the most out of the 2017 Convention. You will leave this event knowing more about what to expect from the convention, but you are also sure to connect with other lone attendees or first-timers.

Welcome, Attendees!

YELLOW name badges designate Abecedarians (first-time attendees).

Name badges must be worn to all sessions.

Only those with name badges will be permitted to attend concurrent sessions, presentations by guest speakers, or other convention events and activities.

Regions are indicated by dot colors:

Workshop: A Conversation with Marlon James

Marlon James, the first Jamaican recipient of the Man Booker Prize for Fiction, won in 2015 for A Brief History of Seven Killings. James combines masterful storytelling with brilliant skill at characterization and an eye for detail to forge a bold novel of dazzling ambition and scope. He explores Jamaican history through the perspectives of multiple narrators and genres: the political thriller, the oral biography, and the classic whodunit confront the untold history of Jamaica in the 1970s, with excursions to the assassination attempt on reggae musician Bob Marley, as well as the country's own clandestine battles during the Cold War. James cites influences as diverse as Greek tragedy, William Faulkner, the LA crime novelist James Ellroy, Shakespeare, Batman, and the X-Men. Michiko Kakutani said of A Brief History of Seven Killings, "It's epic in every sense of that word: sweeping, mythic, over-the-top, colossal and dizzyingly complex. It's also raw, dense, violent, scalding, darkly comic, exhilarating and exhausting—a testament to Mr. James's vaulting ambition and prodigious talent." The novel also won the American Book Award, the Anisfield-Wolf Book Prize, the OCM Bocas Prize for Caribbean Literature, the Minnesota Book Award, and was a finalist for the National Book Critics Circle Award. James is adapting the work for an HBO television series.

Marlon James' first novel, John Crow's Devil, tells the story of a biblical struggle in a remote Jamaican village in the 1950s. Though rejected 70 times before being accepted for publication, it went on to become a finalist for the Los Angeles Times Book Prize and the Commonwealth Writers Prize, as well as a New York Times Editor's Choice. The Book of Night Women, about a slave woman's revolt on a Jamaican plantation in the early 19th century, won the 2010 Dayton Literary Peace Prize, Minnesota Book Award, and was a finalist for the 2010 National Book Critics Circle Award in fiction, as well as an NAACP Image Award. James' short fiction and non-fiction have appeared in Bronx Noir, The Book of Men: Eighty Writers on How to Be a Man, Esquire, Granta, Harper's, The Caribbean Review of Books, and New York Times Magazine, among others.

Born in Kingston, Jamaica, in 1970, James graduated from the University of the West Indies in 1991 with a degree in Language and Literature, and from Wilkes University in Pennsylvania in 2006 with a Masters in creative writing. He lives in Minneapolis, MN, and teaches English and creative writing at Macalester College.

Jeff VanderMeer grew up in the Fiji Islands and has lived in Florida since the age of nine. His most recent fiction is the NYT-bestselling Southern Reach Trilogy (Annihilation, Authority, and Acceptance), which won the Nebula Award and Shirley Jackson Award, was a finalist for several other awards, and made Entertainment Weekly's list of the top 10 books of the year. The trilogy prompted The New Yorker to call the author "the weird Thoreau" and has been acquired by publishers in 35 other countries. Paramount Pictures/Scott Rudin Productions will release a movie version of Annihilation directed and written by Alex Garland in 2017. Prior novels include the critically acclaimed Veniss Underground, Shriek: An Afterword, and Finch. His short fiction, collected in Secret Life and The Third Bear, has been praised by Peter Straub, Junot Diaz, and Karen Joy Fowler.

VanderMeer's nonfiction has appeared in the New York Times, The Guardian, The Washington Post, the Atlantic.com, Esquire.com, New York Magazine online, and the Los Angeles Times. His non-fiction books include Monstrous Creatures (essays), Wonderbook (the world's first fully illustrated creative writing book), The Steampunk Bible, and The Steampunk User's Manual. Through his publishing house, Cheeky Frawg, he and his wife Ann have released such critically acclaimed books as Karin Tidbeck's Jagannath and Leena Krohn's The Collected Fiction.

With Ann, he has co-edited several iconic anthologies, including The Thackery T. Lambshead Pocket Guide to Eccentric & Discredited Diseases, The New Weird, The Weird, The Time Traveler's Almanac, and The Big Book of Science Fiction. In addition, VanderMeer has lectured or taught at the Yale Writers' Conference, the Miami International Book Fair, the University of California, San Diego, the Arthur C. Clarke Center for the Human Imagination, MIT, and the Library of Congress. For nine years he has served as the co-director of Shared Worlds, a unique teen writing camp located at Wofford College. His forthcoming novel from Farrar, Straus and Giroux is titled Borne.

This past fall, VanderMeer served as the 2016-17 Trias Writer-in Residence for Hobart-William Smith College in upstate New York.

Thursday, March 30

A-09 Roundtable: Literature
as (Re)Creation

2:00-3:15 p.m.

Bluegrass 2

A panel of SKD students will discuss how a work of literature they chose to read on their own changed their perspectives about themselves, their relationships, or the world.

Meet & Greet

5:00-7:15 p.m.

Meet in Hotel Lobby

This event is hosted by the SKD National Board at no cost to attendees. It gives our members a chance to meet others from around the country. Food and non-alcoholic beverages are served, and we usually hold an “ice-breaker” game. Occasionally we invite a guest speaker—and Dr. William Johnson, Executive Director of Sigma Tau Delta, usually stops by.

Friday, March 31

Linda Kraeger Awards Luncheon

11:00 a.m.-2:15 p.m.

Meet in Hotel Lobby

At this luncheon, we honor those individuals who have won the national writing contests and scholarships, and we present the chapter awards for best literary magazine and chapter activity. There will be menu selections, which must be made in advance of the convention dates.

F-05 Roundtable: Stuck in a Rut?
(Re)Vitalize Your Chapter

3:30-4:45 p.m.

A panel of SKD Chapter Sponsors will share various ideas, strategies, and methods that have worked for them to encourage greater student involvement in their chapters.

Saturday, April 1

SKD Student Meeting

12:45-1:30 p.m.

Bluegrass 1

Each chapter should send 1-2 representatives to this information session where students will be able to make suggestions concerning their organization. We hope to have a lively discussion among Sigma Kappa Delta student members. The students will meet with National Office personnel to voice any concerns or comments.

SKD Sponsor Meeting

12:45-1:45 p.m.

Bluegrass 2

This is a chance to learn more about Sigma Kappa Delta through the eyes of other chapters. Board Members meet with the faculty sponsors to address comments and concerns.

Business Session, Caucuses, and Regional Networking

WHEN: Thursday, Regional Networking (5:00 - 5:45) and Friday, General Business Session and Regional Caucuses (11:00 - 12:30)

 Do the Math: ATTEND + VOTE = $300

WHO should attend?

All convention attendees! Get the inside scoop on who's who and what's happening in Sigma Tau Delta at the General Business Session. The annual convention is where our chapters elect our next generation of leaders.

WHY should we attend?

This is your chance to have a voice in the governance and planning of the organization. Every chapter with an official voting student delegate present at Friday's General Business Session AND at the chapter's Regional Caucus is eligible to receive a $300 reimbursement ($600 for chapters outside the continental U.S.).

WHAT is regional networking?

On Thursday at 5 p.m., members from each region—Eastern, Far Western, High Plains, Midwestern, Southern, and Southwestern—gather briefly. Come meet the Student Leaders and Regents and ask questions about regional issues and opportunities. And anyone considering running for a regional position must attend this meeting!

WHAT is the General Business Session?

At the General Business Session on Friday, Sigma Tau Delta Officers give brief reports and make important announcements concerning the Society. The voting reimbursement form is issued to each chapter's voting student delegate during the General Business Session.

I see...and WHAT is a Regional Caucus?

Immediately following the General Business Session, students and faculty meet in their respective Regional Caucuses with their current Regent, Student Representative, and Associate Student Representative. Here, chapters make important decisions about regional activities and elect their new student leaders.

Complete your applications for the student leadership positions (available online at www.english.org or at the convention registration table) before the Regional Caucus.

And HOW does our chapter get its money?

Your chapter's voting student delegate (a student member who attends both events) must complete a brief form provided at Friday's General Business Session and return it at the Regional Caucus. The reimbursement checks for $300/$600 will be sent to chapters from the Central Office shortly after the convention.

Student Leadership Positions

Student Representative (SR)

Student Representatives are students elected by the student members of their regions. SRs invite and maintain communication with students within their regions, participate in regional and Student Leadership Committee activities, solicit and write articles for Student Leadership Committee publications, and maintain regular communication with their Regent and other members of the Student Leadership Committee. SRs attend committee and Board meetings in the fall and before the international convention, attend the annual international convention, and assist the Student Leadership Committee with convention activities. SRs are reimbursed for travel expenses to Board meetings and the international convention.

Associate Student Representative (ASR)

Associate Student Representatives are students elected by the student members of their region. The primary role of ASRs is to assist the Student Representative in regional duties. ASRs are expected to contribute to Student Leadership Committee publications and to maintain regular contact with the Student Leadership Committee, their SRs, and their Regents. If an SR is unable to complete his/her duties, the ASR takes over the position and duties of the SR. ASRs are not Board-funded to attend Board meetings or the international convention; however, some regional funding may be available to assist ASRs with travel to the international convention.

Detailed information on duties of the SR and ASR positions is available online. Application forms for the above positions are available at the Convention Registration Table and online.

WHAT about Alumni?

Alumni members and current students interested in becoming members of Alumni Epsilon have two formal opportunities for input into alumni activities.

More information on these positions is available online.

Application forms for these positions are available at the convention registration table and at www.English.org

Suggestions for Chairs and Moderators

Please check bulletin boards in the registration area for changes to presenters, chairs, moderators, or sessions.

Student Chairs

- Arrive at your session at least five minutes prior to the beginning of the session.
- Before formally starting the session, introduce yourself to the presenters and check to see if all of them have arrived; check pronunciation of each presenter's name and ask each to correct any mistakes (incomplete university name, etc.) before you begin.
- Remind presenters that they have 8-15 minutes and that the moderator will keep track of the time.
- Begin the session on time. Timing is tight, so assist the moderator with keeping track of time.
- Ask the audience to hold all questions until all presenters have finished.
- Ask everyone to turn off cell phones or other electronic devices.
- Sit in the front row. Immediately before each presenter begins reading, stand up and off to one side to introduce that presenter by name, college/university or alumni affiliation, and title of the work. Follow the order of presenters as listed in the program.
- Jot down thoughtful comments and questions as presenters read and be willing to participate in the discussion of the works with the moderator, presenters, and audience, but yield the floor to session attendees.
- If a faculty moderator does not arrive, be ready to ask a faculty member in the audience to moderate, or be ready to take on the additional duties of the moderator. When you get a break, please inform the staff at the registration desk about the absent moderator.
- If attendees or presenters need special seating or lighting, make every attempt to accommodate such needs.

Moderators

- Arrive at your session at least five minutes prior to the beginning of the session.
- Before the session begins, introduce yourself to the chair and the presenters, check to see if all of them have arrived, and help your chair begin the session on time.
- Remind presenters that they have 8-15 minutes. Keep track of the time and gently remind presenters when there is only a minute left. Work out the system for reminders with the panelists in advance of the session. Do NOT let any presenter exceed his or her time limit by more than a minute so that the later presenters are cut short.
- As time permits, facilitate a discussion of the works with the presenters, chair, and audience. If the audience hesitates, be ready to step in with your own question(s), but yield the floor to session attendees and presenters. If possible, make sure each presenter is involved in the discussion even if you have to direct a question to her/him.
- Intervene if an audience member is dominating the discussion or is being rude or inappropriate. You are the "safety net" for the often nervous first-time presenters.
- Conclude the session by thanking the attendees and by asking for another round of applause for the presenters.
- If the chair does not arrive, please take on the duties of the chair. At your next opportunity, inform the staff at the registration table about the absent chair.

General Advice

- Check the englishconvention.org website under "Presentations" for suggested questions to facilitate a good session discussion.
- If you must leave a session before its conclusion, do not enter or exit a room while a presenter is at the podium; wait until the applause between presenters for your cue to leave or enter.

Roundtable Participants:

Bryanna Willis, Columbia College, South Carolina (SC)

Samantha Cely, Columbia College, South Carolina (SC)

Channon Watkins, Columbia College, South Carolina (SC)

Amy White, Columbia College, South Carolina (SC)

Film buffs and avid readers, join a student-led discussion of the “recreational” pleasures and real benefits of taking film seriously in literature classes. Explore the ties that bind and the distinctions between film and literary study. We’ll talk about how close reading and close viewing relate, film adaptations, and much more.

A-16. Roundtable: Recreation of African Female Identity

Thursday 2:00-3:15

Marriott Salon 6

Moderator: Janaka Lewis, University of North Carolina Charlotte (NC)

Roundtable Participants:

Thomas Simonson, University of North Carolina Charlotte (NC)

Chelsea Moore, University of North Carolina Charlotte (NC)

Sara Eudy, University of North Carolina Charlotte (NC)

Kelly Brabec, University of North Carolina Charlotte (NC)

Maria Lignos, University of North Carolina Charlotte (NC)

In an attempt to restore the voices and recreate the narratives of African American women, many producers have created complex storylines for black female characters in their productions. Because these storylines are often stereotypical, these characters are stagnant and are incapable of moving past the “misogynoir” reserved for black women.

Jordan Mikayla, Franklin Pierce University (NH)

Jessica Marcure, Franklin Pierce University (NH)

Amori Washington, Claflin University (SC)

Alicia Moss, Claflin University (SC)

In the legal world where black and white are the coin of the realm, literature (storytelling, narrative) offers the gray area, recreating worlds where voices silenced by empowered groups are given narrative voice. Join us as we discuss the knotty issues found in the intersection of law and literature.

Bergman's almost famous protagonists transgress conventional notions of sexuality, the body, or gender roles. We ponder the interrelation of fame, transgression, and violence in Bergman's stories, seeking to determine whether these women are famous because they are different or whether their deviation from the norm prevents them from achieving greater fame.

C-16. Roundtable: Horror: A Legacy on Page and Screen

Friday 8:00-9:15

English Honor Societies

Sigma Tau Delta, International English Honor Society, was established in 1924 to confer distinction upon students of the English language and literature in undergraduate, graduate, and professional studies. Through local chapters at colleges and universities in the United States, Canada, Europe, the Middle East, and the Caribbean, the Society provides cultural stimulation on campus and conducts community service projects that foster literacy and all aspects of the discipline of English, including literature, language, and writing. With over 890 active chapters and more than 1,500 Faculty Sponsors, approximately 8,500 new members are inducted annually. Sigma Tau Delta is a member of the Association of College Honor Societies (ACHS) and proud sponsor of the National English Honor Society (NEHS). www.english.org

Sigma Kappa Delta (SKD), the English Honor Society for two-year colleges, functions much like Sigma Tau Delta. Membership benefits include prestige of membership in a national honor society, eligibility to apply for scholarships and awards, leadership opportunities, and fellowship among members on a local, regional, and national level who share an interest in literature, the English language, and fine arts. Sigma Kappa Delta has 125 chapters and annually partners with Sigma Tau Delta to plan and promote the international convention.

www.english2.org

The National English Honor Society (NEHS), founded and sponsored by Sigma Tau Delta, is the only national organization exclusively for high school students and faculty who, in the field of English, merit special recognition for past and current accomplishments. Individual high schools are invited to petition for a local chapter, through which individuals may be inducted into Society membership. Immediate benefits of affiliation include national recognition, scholarship eligibility, and opportunities for national networking with others who share enthusiasm for, and accomplishment in, the language arts. Since its inception in 2005, NEHS has formed over 800 chapters and currently enrolls 18,000 members annually. www.nehs.org

Sigma Tau Delta Journals

The Sigma Tau Delta Review (founded in 2005) is an annual journal that publishes critical essays on literature, essays on rhetoric and composition, and essays devoted to pedagogical issues. Manuscripts should not exceed 3,000 words, but exceptions will be made for essays of stellar quality. Critical essays must follow the Modern Language Association style guidelines as defined in the MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers (latest edition).

The Sigma Tau Delta Rectangle (founded in 1931) is an annual journal that publishes literary non-fiction, fiction, and poetry. Submissions by a single author for each issue of the journal should not exceed three pieces of prose and six poems. Prose manuscripts should not exceed 2,500 words.

2018 Convention and Common Reader

March 21 - 24, 2018

Hilton Cincinnati Netherland Plaza, Cincinnati, OH

Convention Theme: Seeking Freedom

Freedom. It's a beautiful thing, a necessary thing, the thing without which nothing else matters—"needful to man as air," as Robert Hayden writes in his poem "Frederick Douglass." But, like air, how can you hold freedom in your hand, or even know for certain when you have it, or keep it in your tenuous grasp? We all are moved to this quest, from children seeking the freedom of adulthood, to people looking for refuge from natural disaster or any of the many kinds of disaster man wreaks, to those working to throw off oppression.

As Sigma Tau Delta, we know that language is a powerful tool of liberation. Words can change the real state of human being, can remake a person from a slave to a citizen. In Cincinnati, the landing stage of the promised land for travelers on the Underground Railroad and the home of Harriet Beecher Stowe, we meet to seek the freedom that only the realm of the imaginary made real through language can create. What is the story of your search for freedom, that "beautiful, needful thing"?

The Book of Unknown Americans

by Cristina Henriquez

Cristina Henriquez's novel The Book of Unknown Americans introduces us to the Rivera family, who have come to the United States from Mexico on a visa so that daughter Maribel can attend a special school to help her overcome the aftereffects of brain trauma from an accident. They leave their comfortable life in Mexico where Arturo Rivera has his own construction company and settle in Delaware, where Arturo finds a job picking mushrooms for long hours to support his wife, Alma, and their daughter. Alma watches over Maribel and tries to negotiate the new world she has found herself in. Neighbors in their apartment building turn into friends and allies, as it turns out they are all immigrants from Central and South America. Many of their voices appear in the novel, as they tell how they came to the United States, while the present-day narrative is told largely by Alma and Mayor, the teenaged son of neighbors, a nice guy who takes a shine to Maribel. Their developing relationship plays out against the backdrop of these stories of "the unknown Americans," whom we come to know through their own voices, only to find they have the same dreams and heartbreaks we all do, and some we can only imagine through the power of story.

Published in 2014, The Book of Unknown Americans was named a New York Times and Washington Post Notable Book, an NPR Great Read, The Daily Beast's Novel of the Year, and a Mother Jones, Oprah.com, School Library Journal, and BookPage Best Book of the Year.

Regents' Common Reader Awards

Chapters can receive $100 for organizing and hosting a local event or activity around the 2018 Common Reader: The Book of Unknown Americans. Chapter members do not need to attend the convention to apply for a Regents' Common Reader Award. After the event, chapters simply apply for the award money, following the guidelines posted at www.english.org. Award applications should be emailed on or before February 15, 2018, to the appropriate Regent.
