Come interpret controversial advertisements and discuss the rhetorical strategies employed in them. We will explore how advertisements employ rhetoric to undermine a person's right to "Seek Freedom." Everywhere you go you encounter advertisements: from bothersome popup ads to the largest NYC billboards. What most people fail to recognize is our subconscious internalization of these advertisements and our duty to resist them.

G-15. How to Teach Shakespeare to Students of All Ages - I      Saturday 9:30-10:45      Rue Reolon, SL

Presenters:

Diane Steinberg, The College of New Jersey (NJ)

Jenna Burke, The College of New Jersey (NJ)

Join us and students from The College of New Jersey for this workshop focusing on Shakespeare as a dramatist that helps teachers use the same acting exercises that professionals use to understand Shakespeare’s characters and plots. We’ll look at ways to introduce plays actively with a few simple props that help students understand what they are about to read. We’ll practice reading a few short scenes that open up character. We’ll help students create tableaux that capture the emotions of key moments. Dress comfortably and casually, if possible. There will be handouts to take home.

Moderator: Elisa Beshero-Bondar, University of Pittsburgh at Greensburg (PA)

Roundtable Participants:

Brooke Stewart, University of Pittsburgh at Greensburg (PA)

Audrey Hunker, University of Pittsburgh at Greensburg (PA)

Gabrielle Keane, University of Pittsburgh (PA)

Jonathan Horanic, University of Pittsburgh at Greensburg (PA)

Briana Filer, University of Pittsburgh at Greensburg (PA)

This roundtable discussion engages the audience in learning to write code and exploring how coding enhances studies of literary history—offering orientation in space and time. We provide examples from student-led Digital Humanities projects on the musical Hamilton and in Victorian studies of women's writing and the British Empire.

J-12. Roundtable: Satire and Social Commentary in Cartoons

Saturday 3:30-4:45 Continental, M

Moderator: Traci Thomas-Card, Alumni Epsilon

Roundtable Participants:

Lissa Heineman, Muhlenberg College (PA)

John Meade, Miami University (OH)

Garrett Reed, Miami University (OH)

Abigail Mechley, Miami University (OH)

Our focus is on how modern, animated cartoons are able to represent topics effectively, from depression to current politics, through a satirical lens. Visually unreal and satirical situations allow cartoons to disarm the viewer from anticipating serious moments, which create a greater impact than media that are grounded in reality.

J-13. Roundtable: Chasing Freedom in the Secondary Classroom

Saturday 3:30-4:45

Rue Reolon, SL

Moderator: Nancy Tuten, Columbia College, South Carolina (SC)

Christine Hait, Columbia College, South Carolina (SC)

Amy Hight, Columbia College, South Carolina (SC)

Emily, Moore, Columbia College, South Carolina (SC)

Taryn Auerbach, Columbia College, South Carolina (SC)

Three undergraduate English Education majors will discuss banned books, young adult-oriented media, and multicultural education and will invite audience members to share their experiences in the high school English classroom in the context of exploring how instructional practices in secondary English may impact the academic and personal development of students.
